

Indian History - Overview

1. Ancient India

Ancient Indian history begins with the Indus Valley Civilization (c. 2500 BCE), known for cities like Harappa and Mohenjo-Daro.

The Vedic Period followed, marked by the composition of the Vedas and the rise of early kingdoms.

Major empires included the Maurya Empire under Ashoka and the Gupta Empire, known as the Golden Age of India.

2. Medieval India

The medieval period saw the rise of regional kingdoms and the Delhi Sultanate.

The Mughal Empire, founded by Babur, brought administrative reforms and cultural development.

Akbar is remembered for religious tolerance and strong governance.

3. Modern India

Modern Indian history began with European colonization, especially by the British East India Company.

The Revolt of 1857 marked the first major resistance against British rule.

The Indian independence movement was led by figures like Mahatma Gandhi, emphasizing non-violence.

4. Independence and After

India gained independence on August 15, 1947.

Post-independence India adopted a democratic constitution in 1950.

India has since grown into a major global economy and the world's largest democracy.
